

Politically Active Sorors in their Community

By Soror T. Hale

Kappa Rho Zeta members Jacqueline Whitted and Lee Singleton are sorors serving their community on the political front. Soror Jacqueline Whitted is our Great Lakes Representative of the National Social Action Committee. In 2004, she was appointed to the Commission on Senior Adults by the City Council of Southfield, Michigan. After being sworn in by Southfield City Clerk, Nancy Banks, Soror Whitted has had the responsibility of reporting to the City Council on the community needs of the senior residents. Most recently, Soror Whitted has been accepted into the training program at Michigan State University for "Tomorrow's Political Leaders." This program is implemented by the Institute for Public Policy and Research. As a master's candidate in Public Administration at Central Michigan University, Soror Whitted looks forward to being a future political opponent.

Soror Lee Singleton is a candidate for the Southfield Public School District Board of Education. She seeks one of two vacant seats on the May 3, 2005 election. As a conscientious mother and astute business woman, Soror Singleton has a vested interest in the academic preparation of our future leaders. Soror Singleton is the sole proprietor of Clinical Counseling and Technical Services, LLC, a thriving behavioral health business in the Southfield community. As a master candidate in Health Care Services at Central Michigan University, Soror Singleton graciously looks forward to her political position. We, the members of Kappa Rho Zeta, applaud the perseverance of our sorors as they seek political gains.
